The medical expense benefit under the Chubb policy provides coverage for the treatment of a diagnosed medical condition while traveling. If the Insured Person becomes ill and seeks medical attention, the policy will cover covered expenses pursuant to the terms and conditions of the policy. COVID-19 would be treated as any other covered medical condition. This policy does not provide coverage if a healthy traveler is in quarantine either voluntarily or to comply with the orders of any organization, government or other entity (including the policyholder) unless the traveler has been diagnosed with a medical condition.
